Accountability for Managers

Course Introduction

Organizations thrive when leaders are accountable. Accountability prevents unproductive and distracting activities that do not take individuals closer to their defined goal. When managers are not only responsible but also accountable for their actions and decisions, team members are most likely to do the same, building an organization focused on accountability.

This training course is designed to help middle management leaders to understand the importance of accountability not only for their organization's sake but also for their personal growth as a leader.
